PUBLIC WAR DEBT OF AMERICA FALLING

FOREIGN NATIONS PAYING INSTALLMENTS COMING IN

Seventy-Seven Million Dollars Paid In By Debtor Nations To the United States Tuesday--Will Aid the Treasury Reducing $330,000,000 In Securities--This With the Second Installment of Income Taxes Due Will Permit Secretary Mellon To Complete Regular Quarterly Financing Transactions Without the Aid of a New Issue of Securities For the First Time Since the War.

Payment of $77,783,127.06 by foreign nations on account of the war debts Tuesday aided the treasury in retiring $330,000,000 in maturing securities.

The second installment of income taxes due and balances already on hand permitted Secretary Andrew W. Mellon to complete the regular quarterly financing transaction without the aid of a new issue of securities, for the first time since the war.

The total of collection received from income taxes for this quarter is expected to amount to from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000, but the total will not be known definitely for several days. This payment will serve to determine the surplus with which the fiscal year ending June 30, will be closed and will be a gauge also as to whether or not early tax reduction is in prospect. Great Britain, making its semi-annual payment of interest on its debt was the largest contributor to the day's receipts with $67,950,000.

All this was paid in the short term securities of the United States government, which matured Tuesday and therefore reduced by that amount the total necessary for the treasury to retire.

Italy made its first payment, $5,000,000, under its debt agreement recently ratified by congress. This also was paid in United States securities, $4,450,000 in first Liberty loan bonds and $550,000 in the short term securities retired. While these payments automatically went toward debt retirement since they were made in securities of this government, the other nations making debt payment paid in cash, but most of this also is required by law to be used for retirement of the war debt of the American government. The following cash payments were made:

Belgium, $2,094,160.70; Czechoslovakia, $1,500,000; Estonia, $50,000; Finland, $132,945; Hungary, $29,442.98; Lithuania, $76,578.38; Poland, $750,000, and Roumania, $200,000.

Latvia previously had paid its $30,000 installments due Tuesday.

France and Jugoslavia, altho they have negotiated debt agreements with this country, made no payments because the settlements are not in effect.

JAMES MCCOLLISTER DEAD

James McCollister, a former resident of this county, died at the home of his nephew, J. Elliot Hall, 271 West Park avenue, Columbus, Tuesday evening, aged 80 years, nine months and 20 days.

The "Owl," crack Boston to New York flyer of the New Haven road, crashed into the rear end of a freight 50 yards from the Mansfield (Mass.) railroad station. Three pullmans and the engine of the "Owl" were derailed, one pullman capsizing, while the signal tower and three freight cars were wrecked and destroyed by fire. The fireman of the passenger train was killed and the engineer seriously injured.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Sandusky—Examiners from state bureau of accounts will come here at the request of Mayor E. W. Alstaetter to audit the records of City Auditor Joseph Loth Jr., 52 who has been missing since June 4.

Wharton—Three bandits invaded the C. A. Mench store here shortly before dawn today and escaped only after a running gun battle in which one of the robbers was supposedly injured.

Toledo—Two negroes held up and robbed Mrs. B. E. Melchoir, 138 East Wooster street, Bowling Green, at 1:45 a. m. today as Mrs. Melchoir was motoring across the Cherry street bridge here.

Troy—Convicted of improper relations with a girl student, Orville Wiener, 40, Miami county school teacher and father of five children, was taken to the state penitentiary to begin serving an indeterminate sentence of three to ten years.

Westerville—Ninety-one seniors received diplomas today at the annual commencement exercises of Otterbein college.

Youngstown—County Prosecutor T. J. Thomas, 54, died here today following an operation for the removal of his appendix. The prosecutor was also stricken by pneumonia, the latter hastening his death, physicians said. Thomas was assistant prosecutor for five years before assuming the prosecutorialship.

Columbus—Arthur I. Fishbaugh, 45, vice president of the Pennsylvania Rubber Supply company and general manager of the Columbus subsidiary died here today after a long illness. Fishbaugh underwent an abdominal operation Tuesday. He was born in Pickerington.

Logan—Clerk of Courts Spencer, in recording bills of sale for Hocking county cars, found one old flivver which has been owned by nineteen different persons since it came from the factory.

SOME STRAWBERRIES

Joseph C. Grubb, of Walnut township, has on display in the Crist department store window four varieties of mammoth berries. They are Kellogg's, Premier, Cooper and Corsican.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS BY WOMEN'S CLUB

Mrs. Mary G. Morris is New President, Succeeding Mrs. W. J. Graham.

At the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club Dr. Isa B. ### FIELD DAY FOR KNIGHTS AT TIFFIN

Tiffin, O., June 16, (UP)—Knights Templar of eight northwestern Ohio counties held a field day here today. The affair was held at the Junior Order, United American Mechanics park.

Charles Voegelé, of Mansfield, grand commander of Ohio, was guest of honor. Riley Wortman, of Defiance, also a grand commandery officer, was in attendance.

Knights Templar and other Masons from Sandusky, Norwalk, Fremont, Fostoria, Findlay, Marion and Kenton joined Tiffin members of the fraternity for the field day observance.

FIRE CHIEF ANSWERED LAST ALARM

J. Martin Baer Succumbed to Heart Trouble Following Service at Small Blaze.

J. Martin Baer, chief of the city's fire department is no more. He passed away suddenly Tuesday evening in the fire department building.

The doughty old fire fighter, who had seen thirty-seven years service, answered his last call at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, when an alarm came in from box 35, a smoldering fire in the cob bin at the Crites Milling company called out the department; and the chief, who altho not feeling the best, answered the call of duty.

The department succeeded in squelching the flames after which Chief Baer rode on the fire truck back to the house. He stepped off the apparatus and was standing in front of the truck, donning a pair of overalls when he reeled, fell to the floor and collapsed. Dr. D. V. Courtright and Dr. H. D. Jackson were called but when they arrived, he was past all earthly assistance. His death was due to heart trouble.

It is thought that the excitement of attending the fire and not being very well, was too much for a man of his age and this resulted in his sudden demise. He was also worried over the condition of his brother, John S. Baer, who became suddenly ill Tuesday afternoon.

As a public servant, he was a wonder for a man of his years. Conscientious in his duties to the public, he made one of the best chiefs in the history of the department. The employees respected him, altho at times he seemed stern. He kept the department and apparatus in apple-pie order. He was a strict disciplinarian and believed that every employee should discharge his full duty to the public.

The dead chief was appointed in May, 1889, succeeding W. F. Tolbert. Prior to this for six years he was employed as an engineer at the Strawboard works and the Heffner mills.

A cheery greeting was always yours when you visited the department. The chief was always on the job and he spent but little time visiting and when not on duty he was at home.

Mr. Baer was to have been retired from active service September 30, an understanding having been reached with Mayor Fitzpatrick to that effect.

Robert Hundley has been engaged as a fireman and driver temporarily. Talmer Wise has been appointed acting chief by the mayor.

The deceased was born in Jackson township January 6, 1845, and was a son of John and Catharine Sterrett Baer. He was an engineer by occupation.

He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Virginia Buckles and following her death, he married her sister, Miss Rosalthea Buckles. Two daughters and one son survive; Miss Cynthia Baer, of this city and Mrs. Cora Gregg, Columbus, children of the first marriage, and Walter Baer, of Columbus, a son by his second wife. He is also survived by four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Of his immediate family he leaves one brother, John S. Baer, of this city assistant fire chief, and one sister Mrs. Sarah Nevins, of Columbus. He also leaves two halfbrothers and one halfsister, William Wilson, of Amanda and Robert Wilson and Mrs. Mary Neff, of Marion.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church. Rev. A. H. Beardsley will officiate. Interment in Forest cemetery. The pallbearers will be members of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Misses Mildred Wertman and Ina Klingensmith attended the commencement exercises at Ohio State university Tuesday.

The Analyst

Count Leo Tolstol, the Russian sculptor, said at a New York reception:

"Psycho-analysis is the ugliest and silliest fad of modern times. A lot of novelists have taken it up, but how my father would have hated it!"

"Psycho-analysis analyzes the finest things and proves everything to be ugly. It's like the professor whose wife burst into tears when he refused her a summer holiday in Europe."

"Ah, my friend," he said to her, "tears are useless. I have analyzed them. They contain a little phosphate of lime, some chloride of sodium, oxygen, hydrogen, and that's all."

WHY BLAME NEWSPAPERS?

Whittemore Was a Crook Before He Could Read.

"Why did Dick Whittemore, the offspring of five generations of honest Americans, develop such a criminal nature," queries Sidney Sutherland in an article in this week's Liberty, and answers his question with: "Prosecutor Pecora and Whittemore are a unit in blaming the newspapers!"

"Well, I saw in the papers how easy it was for a game guy to knock off a joint," quoth Whittemore.

"Mr. Pecora's wording of the indictment was different: 'The papers smear the story of a successful holdup all over page one. That prominence alone glorifies the crime in the weak minds of wayward boys. After we get the crooks sentenced, considerable time has elapsed. The story is cold, and the editors stick the brief item back in the paper. If they would play down the crime and play up the retribution it would help law enforcement tremendously.'

"But," points out the writer, "Whittemore was stealing hymn-books and peanuts long before he could read!"

Improve Soil to Increase Crops

Several Middle West States Show Gains in Acreage of Legumes.

The concerted drive in the Middle West for improved soil fertility and better crop rotations is accomplishing its purpose as shown by figures compiled by A. J. Surratt, crop statistician for the Illinois Department of Agriculture. According to the census reports for 1924, as compared to those of five years before, the states of Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin, all show a gain in the acres of legumes per 100 acres of cultivated crops. This is accounted for largely by the educational campaign put on by agricultural colleges, county agents, the press and other agencies.

Michigan Heads List.

This report shows that, of the states named, Michigan heads the list with an increase in legume acreage of 7.37 per 100 acres of cultivated crops; Missouri is next with 5.79 acres; then follow Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa in the order named. Each of these states now has more than ten acres of legumes per 100 acres of cultivated, thus devoted to legume growing.

Legumes, per 100 acres cultivated crops, showed a gain in the last five years:

In Illinois, from 7.33 to 10.34, or 3.01 acres; in Indiana, from 9.59 to 14.15, or 4.56 acres; in Iowa, from 10.50 to 12.25, or 1.75 acres; in Michigan, from 22.65 to 30.02, or 7.37 acres; in Missouri, from 7.97 to 13.76, or 5.79 acres; in Ohio, from 12.98 to 17.63, or 4.65 acres; in Wisconsin, from 24.91 to 30.10, or 5.19.

Factors Increasing Profits.

Farmers generally have seen the advantage of better crop rotations and higher crop yields as factors in reducing costs and increasing profits. Inability to grow legumes because of soil deficiencies, principally of lime and phosphorus, has in the past discouraged many farmers from growing these crops. Educational work has shown how to grow better crops of alfalfa, clovers, soy beans and other high-yielding legumes through use of lime and fertilizers, inoculation and improved cultural practices. With the desire to grow more legumes and the adoption of proper methods of soil treatment, it is expected that the acreage of the soil-building crops will increase rapidly. Live stock and dairy farmers want such crops for their high-protein feeding value and grain and truck farmers want them for cover crops and manure crops.

Soy Beans Superior as Emergency Crop for Hay

About this time of year a certain number of dairymen find that they are not going to have enough good cow hay, clover or alfalfa. For such men, says the crops specialist of the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, there is nothing that will beat soy beans as an emergency crop.

Soy beans may be planted alone or in mixture with sudan grass or sorghum, advises the specialist. They should be inoculated if they have never been planted on the field before. Although they respond to lime, they will make a satisfactory growth on land which has not been limed for years. They are an easy crop to grow. They are the equal of alfalfa hay in feeding value and they leave the ground in good condition to sow wheat or other crops that follow.

Some farmers object to soy beans because they find the crop difficult to cure into hay. The experienced growers do not often have this difficulty. The principal source of trouble is in putting them into the mow before they are cured. The best method is to have the crop cured thoroughly in the field, letting most of the curing be done in the cock. Even though this may take a week or two soy beans seldom spoil in the field.

Where alfalfa can be grown there is no dairy hay that can come up to it in quantity, quality and low cost per ton, but not all farmers are ready to lay out the money for lime, nor have they the ground ready for alfalfa. For these men the soy bean is a good crop.

Well Prepared Seed Bed Favored for Many Crops

The cheapest and easiest time to cultivate corn or any other crop, is before the seed is planted. If the seed bed is thoroughly well prepared and all of the surface well pulverized, the crop is in the best condition to start growing. It will even pay, if weather conditions permit, to delay planting a few days for the sake of letting the first weed seeds start to grow, and then going over the field an extra time with the harrow to uproot them. When the seed is put into a warm, mellow, well cleaned soil, it has a real chance to start growing and to get ahead of noxious weed growth.

Get Barley Seeded Early

For a good crop of barley it is quite important to get it seeded early; in fact, it is best to seed barley before oats are seeded for best results. It is beneficial for oats and barley seed to remain in cold ground a short time before the soil and ground is found to be warm enough for growth. When sown very early, both oats and barley seed should be well-matured, or there is much danger of its rotting before growth starts.

Jumper Suit Has Prominent Place

Popular Outfit Adaptable to All Ages—Worn With or Without Coat.

Sports dress is the first consideration for the spring wardrobe, and the models of this type have never been more attractive. The jumper suit carries on, more popular, if possible, than it was last season. This jolly, chic, wholly comfortable outfit has been found to be adaptable to a young girl, a subdeb or the mother of both. The model has been so universally accepted that this season's version is in a way standardized.

These jumper frocks of wool are intended, of course, for the strenuous sports or general utility of the short spring season, when they will receive hard wear, and for occasional use through the later months at seashore or mountain resort. They may be worn with or without a topcoat, most often with just a fur piece or with one of the scarfs of wool, taffeta or crepe in gay colors, so fashionable this season. Having a wider use, the crepes are more in demand than any other single fabric. They are now to be had in many different weaves and weights.

Some exceedingly swagger jumpers from Paris are coat-like in character and others are patterned after the classic Norfolk jacket, with one of the many new belts of kid, patent leather or suede. A few are shown with fullness brought out through a bias or side clusters of plaits below the belt. In an ultra-smart suit done by Lanvin the short skirt of crepe de chine is plaited so closely as to produce a punctuated ripple at the bottom. One now sees jumper frocks distinguished from jumper suits because they are made of lighter materials—lace, embroidery and the most fragile stuffs.

Two-Piece Tailored Dress of Flat Crepe; Blouse of French Blue.

With this simple, matter-of-fact conception as a foundation a surprising number of different styles may be established. The boyish jumper is an intriguing thing. It is smart, easy and gives always a well groomed appearance, especially to the girl of slim athletic figure. A special jumper suit of American authorship built of plain and novelty wool goods combined has a blouse that extends well below the hips, with a narrow belt six inches above. A deep shirt bosom buttons down the front of the blouse with a cluster of narrow shoulder tucks. The skirt is plain with the requisite plaits arranged at one side. This shirt bosom model is seen in the severely tailored suits made of two materials.

Another sports model is composed of jersey cloth in a lovely new shade of coral. The skirt of this is laid in its entire circumference in inverted box plaits, very flat and narrow in effect. The blouse of this slip-on type is sleeveless, with wide armholes, and the neck is cut with a deep V in front. This is finished all around with a stiff band of the goods and is worn over a shirt of white crepe de chine, buttoned high with a soft turnover collar and long sleeves that are finished with a narrow wristband.

Snappy Plaid Cape-Coat

Appeals to Young Women

The "Kiki coat" is one of the most effective cape-coats of the season. It is made of large-squared plaid material with a scant coat-skirt and with a detachable cape. Without the cape, the coat becomes a practical plaid sports-coat of straightened type, suitable for country wear. With the cape, it is among the snappiest of coats for street wear. Of course, a stout person or one well along in years will not care for this coat, as it is designed for young women.

Shirrings a Favored Trim

Shirrings play a part of distinct importance in the fashions of spring and often supply the only note of decoration.

Fibers beaten from string-bean pods are being spun into a coarse thread by Australians and placed in competition with hemp and cotton for many commercial purposes. HARTMAN THEATER.

"In Love With Love," a romantic comedy, will be presented next week by the Hartman stock company at Hartman theater, Columbus, as the ninth play of the summer season. This popular comedy was first produced under the name of "Love and Learn," by George Cohan and Ruth Shepley, new leading lady of the company, created the leading role in it. Before it came to New York, Mr. Cohan had another idea and he launched a new play "Two Fellows and a Girl," and put Miss Shepley in the leading role in it. "Love and Learn" was changed to "In Love With Love" and produced by William Harris at the Ritz theater, New York, where it had a long and profitable run.

Lynne Fontaine, Ralph Morgan and Henry Hull (Lenore Ulric's leading man) played the three chief roles in it and it was one of the successes of Broadway. Ruth Shepley will be seen in the Lynne Fontaine part, which she originally created; Donn Coon will have the Ralph Morgan role, a splendid role—that of a young bridge builder; and Neil McFee will have the Henry Hull part.

The story is one of the cleverest and most romantic of any play yet presented here. One of the finest scenes in the play is when Donn Cook, as the bridge builder, demonstrates with his tiny bridge model, just how bridges work. It is all done on a dark stage with tiny lights on the miniature bridge.

William Ingersoll, Gilberta Faus, John Lott, Georgia Neese, Elise Bristol, Martha Lee Manners and Forrest Orr will all have good roles and it is a foregone conclusion that "In Love With Love" will have the population of Columbus in love with it before the week's engagement is over.

Matinees on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Ladies may purchase orchestra seats on Monday nights for 50 cents. Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer thirty minutes before the play and during intermissions. Season reservations may still be made to assure good locations each week.

BEAN BEETLE CAUSES VERY MUCH DAMAGE

Quite Likely That Injury Will be More General This Year in Pickaway County.

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist of the college of agriculture, Ohio State university, has written County Agent J. D. Bragg as follows:

"Observations in southern Ohio indicate that more bean beetle damage will happen this year than in 1925. Adults have migrated to the early beans and the first eggs were hatching the week of June 7.

"Your county is not included in the list of southern Ohio counties where damage was severe last year. It is included in these counties where the insect caused damage in a few places. It is quite likely that this damage will be more general this year.

"The enclosed bulletin gives directions for controlling the bean beetle with calcium arsenate applied as a spray or dust. Perhaps you can make use of this in the your monthly publications or in an article prepared for the county paper. More of these bulletins may be secured by applying the department of publication."

A very satisfactory treatment for beetle control and one which does very little injury to foliage is calcium arsenate one part and lime nine parts. Mr. Bragg invited anyone interested to call the Farm Bureau office for more information on the control method.

RARE OPERATION SAVES GIRL'S LIFE

Food Enters Her Stomach Through a Tube.

Indianapolis, Ind.—A long fight for the life of thirteen-year-old Beatrice McCrary of Rushville, Ind., has been won and the girl will live and thrive, as the result of a daring and unusual operation.

Food is taken into the girl's stomach through a tube through the chest connected with the stomach. The child, ten years ago, swallowed a quantity of lye and the scars in the passage-way from her mouth had become so constricted that it was impossible for solid foods to pass.

To keep her from starving, a severe operation dilating the passageway from the mouth was performed forty-three times, records show.

This operation was so painful that a general anesthesia was necessary each time. Following the operations the girl would be able to take food for a time until the burn scars again would close the passage. The child had suffered the pangs of hunger many times and she had learned to know the horror of a painful siege on the operating table.

The name of the surgeon to whom the operation was intrusted was not made public. The operation was carried out by making an incision through the chest wall and stitching an opening in the stomach wall to the borders of this incision, leaving an opening to the stomach from the exterior.

For several days after the operation the life of the little patient hung in the balance, but with the healing of the wound, and the introduction of food through the new route, recovery was rapid. During the last few days before leaving the hospital, Beatrice gained weight at the rate of a pound a day.

PRIZES OF GAME OF MAP HUNTING

Sport Is Equal in Interest to Solving of Cross-Word Puzzles.

Washington.—Equal in interest to cross-word puzzles is the game of map hunting. The by-product of cross-word puzzles is an increased vocabulary. The by-product of map hunting is a vocabulary of words from a score or more of ancient and modern languages, and a fresh point of view of geography.

Problems may be selected from the news of the day or from the map itself. Right now Chinese armies are fighting for possession of Peking. The question is what does Peking mean to the Chinese?

Equidistant from Peking are places named Nanyuan and Peiyuan. The syllable "pe" or "pei" is a familiar one in Chinese names. So is "nan." Everyone will think of Nanking. Further inspection of the map shows that Peking bears the same relation to Nanking, as Nanyuan does to Peiyuan; that is, the "pe" is north and the "nan" is south. When we remember from history that Nanking was one of the favorite capitals of China, the puzzle is solved; Peking means the north capital and Nanking means the south capital.

The Puzzle of Three 'D's.'

"Not only Chinese words but Russian, Spanish, Arabic and words of many other languages also, may be learned as readily by exploring expeditions—on a map," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society's headquarters at Washington, D. C.

"As a grade school pupil in geography, everyone had to learn the major rivers of Europe. What satisfaction when Russia finally was reached, for there ran the rivers of the three D's: the Dniester Dnieper and the Don! They were easy. Yet the repetition of the 'D' should have aroused suspicion. An adult intellect can see that there is something wrong between the 'd' and the 'n' of the first two names.

"Throughout the desert regions of northeast Africa and into Arabia, the map explorer is confronted with the term 'Bir' before names indicating small places; Bir Garrah in Egypt. Bir Soluk in Cyrenaica, Bir-el-Meloshah on the Damascus-Bagdad post route. 'Bir' makes one think of a famous Biblical name, Beersheba. In the desert a community exists either where there is running water to make a pool or a well to supply water by bucket. Running water is so rare in the desert that it is generally marked by a large community, an oasis, and therefore, 'bir' probably is Arabic for well.

"Indeed Beersheba confirms this. Sheba's wells were seven. They supply water to thirsty travelers today even as they did to Abraham and Sarah. In Beersheba Jacob robbed Esau of his birthright and to the crossroads of the 'birs' came Elijah fleeing from the original Jezebel. On the limestone walls of the wells are deep lines worn by thousands upon thousands of ropes, a mute history of the venerable place.

"Before leaving this section of the map one should learn easily that a 'wady' is a stream bed, dry most of the year. Another Arabic word which now frequently pops into the daily news is 'Jebel.' The Jebel or Gebel Druses are the 'Mountain Druses. Jebel marks many mountain ranges in Africa and 'Jeb' appears beside single peaks. At the other end of the Mediterranean is Gebel-al-Tarik—now Gibraltar.

"Your seasoned map explorer never trusts spelling. He trusts sounds far more. He will 'hear' a similarity between 'wady' and the first syllable of Guadalquivir. The 'wady-al-Kebir' the great river, is just as much a memorial to the Arabic invasion of Spain as the halls of Granada. Guadalajara, in Mexico, is an Arabic 'wady' name that shipped to the New World on a Spanish conquistador's galleon.

The "Great Great River."

"One of the favorite lessons of the geography classroom is that Yangtze Kiang river is a gross error. 'Since 'kiang' means 'great river,' the poor Chinaman struggling with English would be a trifle confused to hear an American say what would sound to his ears 'Yangtze great river river.' The same precautions must be taken with 'ho' meaning a river not so great, like the Howang Ho.

"A similar situation is suspected in India when one discovers numerous 'ganges' as labels for streams in Ceylon. Ganges is not far different from 'ganga' and both mean river, so Ganges rightfully should stand alone like the 'Don' of Russia and the 'Avon' in England. Avon is an old Celt word for river.

"To the map hunter duplication of syllables is a hint to some common geographic fact. He will discover that the 'pore' of Singapore and the 'pur' of Bhagpur, India, both mean city. In China he will find the provinces of Kiang Si, Shan Si and Kwang Si. It is apparent that the provinces are far interior. Since the main population is on the coast, the Chinese must have referred to that tier of provinces as the West, much as Americans do the west coast. Investigation proves out another map puzzle, for 'si' is Chinese for 'west.'"

AMUSEMENTS

That girl surely has appeal—she's a cobra."

That's the latest expression one hears around Hollywood. The phrase is expected to percolate thruout the country and become a part of H. L. Mencken's American language.

After Rudolph Valentino made "The Sheik" this word came into common use. Now Valentino has made "Cobra," and the college professors are sitting up nights to see if the new expression attains the same popularity.

"Cobra" means the lure of an attractive woman—the hypnotic appeal which the cobra has for the panther. Nita Naldi plays the cobra part, while Valentino, the star of the picture, is on the receiving end.

"Cobra" was adapted from Martin Brown's successful Broadway drama and produced by Ritz-Carlton Pictures for Paramount release. A notable cast also includes Gertrude Olmsted, Casson Ferguson, Eileen Percy and Claire de Lorez. The picture, which was directed by Joseph Hanabery, opens a two days' run at the Met theater today.

Indian Learned to "Talk"

It never occurred to me before to "make" conversation. Among themselves, Indians speak seldom and then only when they have something important to say. They never talk just to be talking. And now I saw for the first time that there was a different custom among white men.

I started at once to change all this in my own makeup. I began to make talk consciously—little talk about little things. Now—ten years' later—it comes natural for me to converse, but I had to learn how to do it just as I had to learn how to read English or tie a white man's tie.—Chief Long Lance, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union-Herald:—Celestia E. Blue, daughter of Harvey A., and Emily Bowman Blue was born June 7, 1851, and departed this life June 12, 1926, at the age of 75 years and five days.

On December 25, 1873, she was united in marriage with Jas. F. Plum and together they trod life's pathway, sharing its joys and sorrows until he was called home August 9, 1905.

This union was blessed with five children, four daughters and a son. Two of the daughters died in infancy. Two daughters, Chloe, wife of L. C. Trout, of Amanda, Ohio, and Clara, wife of A. L. Barr of Massillon, Ohio, and the son, A. Ray Plum, at the family home were spared to cheer and comfort their mother in her declining years. She is also survived by seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild. A little great-grandson, Bill Bitler having preceded her to the spirit world but a few days. Beside rearing her own children she also took into her heart and home Orwell Noecker, the two year old son of her sister, Mrs. Emma Noecker whose death left him motherless. That she was "mother" to him in the truest sense of the word, needs no other testimony than the affection shown by him during her life and his devotion in her last hours. Of her immediate family the following brothers and sisters survive: Alvin J., of London, Ohio; Julian M., Columbus; Harvey O., and Orrin P., of Kenton; Clinton A., Westerville, and Mrs. Clara Driesbach, of Circleville.

With husband, babies, father and mother, three sisters and two brothers gone on before, Mother Plum was no stranger in the spirit world which she has entered. To know Mrs. Plum was to love her, hence the relatives mourn not alone but a host of friends and neighbors grieve at her "passing."

Thru baptism administered by Elder G. N. Tussing, she became a member of the Primitive Baptist church about forty-five years ago and remained a faithful and consistent member until death; being absent from the services of the church only when ill health prevented her attendance. She had been in failing health for about five years but her fatal illness was of little more than a week's duration.

Mrs. Plum was a woman of noble character—broad minded and great hearted, always ready and willing, as long as health permitted to go where duty called no matter how great the self sacrifice. But now the once busy hands are folded, the tender voice is stilled and she rests. Yes, mother is gone. The nurse of your infancy, the guide of your youth, the counsellor of your riper years, your friend should all other friends have failed you. She, whose heart was a stranger to every other feeling but love—sleeps and you are deprived of your most tender comforter and your wisest counsellor. But you have been wonderfully blest in having been permitted to enjoy her companionship for so many years, even more years than the allotted span of life and the blessed memory she has bequeathed you by her precepts and example will certainly be a great comfort to you.

True she can never return to you but you can go to her and there a reunited family be ever happy in that land whose green turf hides no graves.

LARGE CLASS OF GRADUATES AT WESLEYAN

Degree of Doctor of Laws

Conferred on President of Ohio State University.

Delaware, O., June 16, (UP) — Graduation of 343 seniors, reunions of 18 classes and the conferring of the degree of doctor of laws upon President W. Rightmire of Ohio State university, featured the eighty-second annual commencement at Ohio Wesleyan university here today. Dr. Charles H. Judd, director of the school of education at the University of Chicago, delivered the commencement oration.

Baccalaureate service, as part of the graduation week festivities, was held last Sunday at which President John W. Hoffman, delivered the baccalaureate sermon. Ohio Wesleyan students presented Biblical plays as the feature of the Sunday evening program.

Ohio Wesleyan's graduating class included 231 members from Ohio and 90 students who came from 21 other states, and from five foreign countries, Switzerland, Chile, China, Korea and Japan, were the foreign countries represented in the graduating class.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rudisill, of Cloverdale farm, entertained Tuesday evening to a six o'clock dinner the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Woolever and son, Robert, and daughter, Catherine Jane, of Polk, Nebraska, and the Misses Daisy and Ola Woolever, of Circleville.

Mrs. Roy E. Groce entertained Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock honoring the eighth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Mary Elizabeth. A birthday cake all iced and illuminated with eight candles made the hearts of the girls' little friends joyous. Those present were Ruby and Catharine Chalfin, Marjorie Brown, Marjorie Wolf, Lucille May, Catharine Brown, Bernice Grooms, Edna Shaw, Louise Brown, Ethyl May, Helen Leist, Thelma Lathouse, Norma Gean Brown, Cleo Brown, Ethel Hussey and James Groce.

The Jackson W. C. T. U. was entertained Wednesday afternoon June 9, by Mrs. George Fee. The meeting was in charge of President Mrs. Ida Rader, and was opened by singing "America." Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Rader. The Lord's Prayer was repeated by all.

Mrs. George Fee read a beautiful paper from which we quote the following lines:

"The life of every boy and girl," the winsome White ribboner said, "is much more precious than the life of a tree, and God Who plants the tree and cares for it will help all children who put themselves under His loving care."

"Flower Mission and Relief Work in Action" was read by Mrs. Earl Wolfe.

"Story of Our Flower Mission and Relief Work" was read by Mrs. George Gerhardt. Miss Dorothy Wolfe, Miss Mary Shortridge and Mr. Sue Shortridge, telling how it grew it spread and it blossomed. Love Kindles Again, Reunites Pair, 61-60

New York.—A lad and a lassie, sixty-one and sixty years old, who had been sweethearts together in Scotland, were reunited by the arrival here of the liner Tuscania. The bride-to-be, Mrs. Buchanan Brice, who arrived from Wishaw, Scotland, is a widow. The bridegroom-to-be, James Winning, also had been married.

Twenty-four years ago Mrs. Brice lost her first husband. Mr. Winning's wife died 12 years ago. Two years ago he returned to Scotland and discovered that his boyhood sweetheart no longer was married. He took the first train to Wishaw to resume courting. After some delay the banns were proclaimed.

Mrs. Brice refused, however, to agree to an early marriage. Also there was the matter of the Scotch quota with which to contend. So it was two years before Jimmie saw his bride-to-be walking down the gangplank.

YOU CAN'T HIDE A FARM IN A SAFE DEPOSIT BOX

"How much would you take for your farm?"
"It isn't for sale."
"Don't blame you! If I had it I wouldn't want to sell."
"Did you ever stop to think that you might be forced to sell or mortgage the place, to hand the money over to someone who was injured by one of your cars?"
"You know how crowded the highways are. You run the risk of accident every time one of your cars leaves the yard. I say you, because, no matter who may be driving the car at the time of the accident, you, as owner, will be the man held responsible."
"Right after an accident there is a distinct disadvantage in owning a prosperous farm. It cannot be conveniently hidden in a safe deposit box. It is evident to all who pass. As a consequence, if someone is injured by one of your cars, he's likely to say to himself; 'That fellow is good for any judgment; I can get against him. I might as well ask for a large sum' And suddenly you find yourself sued for $25,000 or $50,000."
Would you care to have a jury of twelve men, picked up here and there around the county, deciding whether or not you should keep your farm?
"Even if the claimant is not given all he asked, you would have been put to the great worry and expense of defending the suit; during which time your regular work is sure to suffer."
"Let me fix you up with Automobile insurance, which will protect your interests if an automobile damage suit is brought against you; pay the court and defense costs, if the case goes to court, and protect your farm, by paying the judgment up to the limits of your policy, if one is rendered against you."

WHY IS A BANK.

"Hands Up!" comes a cry as you pass a dark spot in the street near your home.

Hurriedly you elevate your hands. The bendit searches your pockets. He gets from them the small change you carry with you for your fare, smokes and lunches, and, with a curse, sends you on your way.

All in all, his loot is about $2.39. You hurry home, scared, of course, but thankful you visited the bank earlier in the day and deposited the bulk of your pay check there.

Suppose there had been no bank! Suppose that in all this state there was no man or organization in the business of guarding the money of others!

Where would you keep your money? Would you carry it with you, only to hand it over to thugs? Would you bury it in a tin can in the back yard? Or would you hide it under that loose board in the attic?

Still supposing all of the banks, by some magic, have been swept away, where would you get any money at all?

How would you pay Bill Jones, who lives over on the other side of the city, the $10 you owe him? You could not send him a check, for, with the closing of the banks, there no longer would be any checks. You could not go to the bank and get the actual cash to carry to him, for there are no banks. What would you do?

Guarding the money of the community, and furnishing an easy way in which money may be transferred are only two of the functions of the modern bank. There literally are hundreds of others.

So well known are these ordinary services to the community that their continued use causes little comment. Take them away, and life would be made far more difficult.

So it is with the other services of banks, which, while less well known, are even as vital to community life. To tell you about them, and how they benefit you, and how you can use them, and how they benefit you, and how you can use them to benefit your self still further, this series of articles, of which this is the first, has been prepared, and will be printed in this newspaper.

Island That Figured in American History

Harmán Blennerhassett realized a fortune of about $100,000 through the sale of his Irish estate. When he came to the United States most of this money was left behind, to be drawn upon as needed, through an American banker.

The Ohio river island which now bears his name is said to have been once the property of George Washington, part of an Ohio river tract he located in 1770. When Blennerhassett first saw it, it belonged to Elijah Backus, a Marietta editor, and was known as Backus' island. It had an area of about 297 acres, and records show Backus had paid $833.33 for it. Blennerhassett did not buy the entire island, but the upper portion, containing about 170 acres. He bought it from Backus in March, 1798, for $4,500. Blennerhassett named it Isle de Beau, and called it that during his occupancy, although his own name was soon attached to it by his neighbors.

In England recently a golf team was opposed by a team of archers. The latter shot their way around with a smaller score than the golfers and won the match. ## YOUNG STUDENT AMONG GRADUATES

Columbus, June 15.—Lester B. Cox, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Cox, 350 Markison avenue, reached the age of 20 on May 14 and Wednesday night will graduate from Otterbein college as the youngest member of a class of 91, receiving the B. A. degree after majoring in the study of history. He also has one of the principal roles, that of the "Duke," in "Kempy," the senior class play, which will be presented Tuesday night. During the past winter, Cox managed the Otterbein basketball team. As the son of a minister, Lester received his schooling wherever his father preached, and his record shows he attended primary grades at Newark and took high school studies at Circleville and Westerville. Rev. Mr. Cox is pastor of Washington Avenue United Brethren church.

SOME HINTS FOR THE OCEAN "TENDERFOOT"

First Passage Is Full of New Adventures.

Washington.—Increased facilities for crossing the Atlantic at reasonable cost, prosperity at home, and cheap money abroad are combining to send a larger army of American tourists to Europe this summer than any, probably, that has ever invaded the Old World in a like period. Many of these travelers, familiar enough with their pullmans and river steamers, will find conditions on an ocean liner disconcertingly strange. A bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society introduces the "ocean tenderfoot" to this new environment in which he will be confined from five to ten days.

"Getting off is an exciting matter," says the bulletin, "and the temptation is to spend the last hour or so near the gangplanks, chatting with your own friends and watching the milling throng of travelers and well-wishers in holiday spirit. If you are wise, however, you will invest say 20 minutes of this time for your own future comfort. Take a turn around the promenade deck and select the neighborhood in which you would like to have your deck chair. You will not find distinguishing numbers on the chairs, but where you would least expect them—on the ceiling above.

Selecting a Steamer Chair.
"You probably will want your chair on the starboard (or right) side going to Europe and on the port (or left) side returning, for those are the sunny sides. Having decided on the location you desire and noticed the neighboring numbers, look up the deck steward and try to persuade him to allot you a chair somewhere in the neighborhood. There will be a fee, of course, for the chair and a steamer rug. If you are traveling with friends you will wish to make this a joint arrangement so as not to be separated.

"Watch the bulletin boards. These are the town criers and newspapers on shipboard. There are little daily papers, too, on the larger liners. Usually there will be a bulletin board in the main companionway at the promenade deck level, another outside the dining saloon and a third, perhaps, in the smoking room.

"Your seat in the dining saloon is usually arranged for, unless otherwise announced, at the first meal after sailing.

"Cheerful bugle blasts order your life on many of the big liners, but you must learn what they mean or they will lead you hopelessly astray. The blast in the reasonably early morning, say at eight o'clock, ship's time, means either of two things: If you are an early riser and are taking a pre-breakfast walk on deck, it is a signal that your food is ready. If you are a late sleeper (and an ocean voyage is the chance of a lifetime for laziness) it means that you can take forty winks and still be in time for a late breakfast.

"If you hear a bugle blast at about 10:30 pay no attention to it. It is not for you and your fellow passengers, but for the ship's crew. It signifies that the captain is making an unexpected inspection of some part of his domain.

Hot Broth Unheralded.

"Having made the acquaintance of the breakfast bugle, the 'ocean tenderfoot' might well think the 10:30 bugle call connected in some way with the hot broth that appears about this time for those in deck chairs. But this comes quite unheralded—a mere detail in carrying out the ship management's evident intention to keep the passengers continually busy with food. The food schedule on a big liner runs something like this: Breakfast, 8 to 10; hot broth, 10:30 or 11; luncheon, 1 to 2:30; after-luncheon coffee, 2 to 3; afternoon tea and cakes, 4 to 5; dinner, 7:30 to 9; after-dinner coffee, 8:30 to 9:30; sandwiches in the smoking room, 10 to 11.

"The second bugle for passengers blows at one o'clock and means that luncheon is then ready. At 7 p. m. the bugle sounds again. But do not rush to the dining saloon. It is simply a signal that it is time to dress for dinner! At 7:30 the bugler quite outdoes himself in the cheeriness of his call to the chief prandial occasion of the day.

"The only other major signal of the day on shipboard is the blowing of the whistle exactly at noon, ship's time. On the larger liners, at least, the whistle is heard at no other time unless there is a dense fog. The whistle is blown for a double purpose at noon: to signal the time and to test the whistle itself.

"You must watch your time carefully on shipboard. On the trip to Europe you will lose five hours. What the loss is each twenty-four hours depends on the speed. On the fastest liners it amounts to an hour a day.

"Don't fancy you can stand at the rail and see the traffic of the Seven Seas go by on your way to Europe. The day of crowded steamer lanes is no more. Now two tracks are 'staked out' in the ocean for ships; one east-bound and one west-bound. On one of its most recent voyages to Europe the huge Majestic was seemingly almost as isolated as Columbus' little fleet. It sighted a tramp steamer the second day out from New York. There was no additional visual evidence that other ships sail the Atlantic until the big vessel approached the English channel only a few miles from her destination."

Judge Blosser Orders Child Returned to Mrs. Larrick—Was Held By Grandparents.

Lucille Larrick was awarded the custody of her child, who had been held by the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hickie, of Kingston, by Common Pleas Judge P. J. Blosser this morning.

Mrs. Larrick, who has been separated from her husband since last November, brought habeas corpus proceedings through Attorney W. C. Walter to regain possession of the child taken away from her two weeks ago.

In her evidence on the stand, Mrs. Larrick declared that she attempted to take the child from the grandparents and that they choked her and ordered her from the house.

DESTRUCTIVE STORM

Chillicothe, June 14.—An electrical, wind and rain storm of hurricane proportions swept through Ross County and this city Monday afternoon and did property damage that will run into the thousands of dollars.

Reports from all parts of the county indicate considerable damage to wheat and corn fields, leveled by the high winds.

Hail stones stripped blades from the young corn and riddled young vegetable plants.

Small streams swollen by a fall of two inches of rain within a half hour overflowed bottom lands and did much damage.

Fruit trees were uprooted in the city, the streets were strewn with broken limbs and in many instances blown over shade trees. The protecting line of hills to the west of the city prevented much more damage.

Large doors on business establishments gave way before the wind. The heat wave that prevailed here today, sending the mercury to a high point of 89 for the season, was broken.

Milk Gives Most Food Value At Least Cost

Milk gives more food value for less cost than any other food known to man, according to Herbert C. Hooks, secretary of the Evaporated Milk association.

H. C. Hooks.

"Dietitians are unanimous in advocating the use of milk by men, women and children," said Mr. Hooks. "Milk and evaporated milk supply some of all the materials necessary for the growth and maintenance of the body; they furnish energy for work, play and warmth.

"Milk helps repair the wear and tear of the body. It is as good as meat for building muscle. Moreover, it is cheaper. A quart of milk will supply as much protein as seven ounces of sirloin steak or four large eggs. Milk, particularly evaporated milk, which has twice the mineral content of market milk, is one of the best and cheapest sources of lime, which is a form of calcium. Infants and growing children need lime to build bones and teeth. It is just as necessary for adults to keep their bones in good condition. One quart of milk, or one pint of evaporated milk, furnishes as much calcium as ten large oranges, thirty-two eggs or twenty pounds of beef. Milk also is a valuable source of phosphorus and supplies a certain amount of iron.

"By some authorities milk is said to be an aid in longevity. Dr. Herman Bundesen, health commissioner for Chicago, gives his prescription for long life as follows: Drink one quart of milk a day and mix with one hour of sunshine. Repeat ad infinitum.

"Due to the efforts of health officials to get across to the public the message of milk, its general use in the United States has advanced tremendously in the last decade. This is especially true of evaporated milk for reasons of its convenience and economy. Housewives know there is no fear of obtaining contaminated evaporated milk, because it is not only the best grade of market milk rendered double-cream by dehydrating, but it is sterilized as well."

NEWSPAPER MAN

Is On Trial Charged With Manslaughter.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 15. (UP.)—Carl C. Magee, newspaper editor of Albuquerque and the man who first agitated the question of the Teapot Dome Oil scandal, went on trial here today charged with manslaughter in connection with the accidental shooting of John Lassetter, a by-stander during a fight between Magee and former Judge D. J. Leahy, who had vainly attempted to keep the editor in jail for contempt.

The disagreement with Leahy was the outcome of Magee's crusading editorials in the Albuquerque State Tribune, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, which Magee edits. Several times before in seven years of political conflict and championing of reform measures, Magee has been haled into court, usually on technical charges of libel.

The editorial campaign which aroused Leahy's resentment had ended in the editor's triumph and Leahy's defeat at the polls when the two men met in the lobby of the Meadows Hotel here on the night of August 22, 1925. The former judge assaulted Magee, who fell to the floor. On the floor and under a rain of blows, Magee fired his revolver. The shot killed Lassetter, a state highway employee, who had come to Magee's aid.

"Although I am sorry beyond measure for the death of Lassetter," Magee said, "I am absolutely without a feeling of any guilt, and I believe I will be acquitted by any jury that may be selected."

As on a former occasion, Magee may be tried before a Spanish-American jury unfamiliar with English. Many citizens here are of Spanish descent, and interpreters are necessary for juries drawn from that part of the population. The trial is being held in the San Miguel county court.

Sinister Prospect

"My nephew, Elmo, was trudging along in the road the other day," related Farmer Fumblegate, "when an automobile rushed onto him from behind, knocked him down and ran over his head."

Flip of Coin Chooses Township Treasurer

Port Huron, Mich.—For minor township office, the treasurership of Burnside township near Inlay City has set a precedent for being bitterly contested.

At the outset there were seven candidates in the field for the office. All were eliminated but John Riley and Dolph McNary. At the April election
Riley received 147 and McNary 148 votes. A recount was held and one of McNary's votes was thrown out, leaving the election tied.

Riley and McNary then decided to toss a coin for the honor. Riley won the toss. He gave McNary another chance with the coin, but again it fell in favor of Riley. Riley is now Burnside township treasurer.

A BIG MISTAKE

It has been reported that the Circleville Welding Co., has gone out of business. There is nothing to it.

On account of there not being enough work to keep me busy I have accepted a position as welder with the Mid-West Box Co., where work during the day. I do my welding at the shop of evenings. Bring me your next job and have it done right.

U. S. IS GAINING IN WORLD TRADE

Increase Is Shown Since Pre-War Days.

Washington.—A striking picture of the foreign, commercial and financial transactions of the United States during 1923 is given in the fourth annual international trade balance statement made public by the Department of Commerce.

In a foreword to the statement, which takes into account the huge visible and so-called "invisible" or less tangible items of trade, Secretary Hoover pointed to the increase in total international transactions from around $6,000,000,000 in 1924 to nearly $8,800,000,000 last year as "showing very strikingly the enormously increasing importance of our foreign commercial and financial relations."

The figure was a gain of approximately $1,100,000,000 over the 1923 total and nearly $5,000,000,000 more than the annual prewar average.

"Increasing economic stability in foreign countries," the secretary said,
"was reflected by a net import of fully one-fourth of the estimated amount of American currency held abroad and by the fact that the movement of foreigners' bank deposits in this country declined for the first time since 1921.

"During the year the United States further strengthened its international investment position. Our total foreign holdings now amount to about $10,400,000,000, having increased by more than $1,200,000,000 during the year. Our total returns from foreign investments are now greater than at any time in our history."

In the absence of complete and accurate figures which, it was said, would show total exports and imports,
both visible and invisible, to be equal,
the statement, allowing for "errors and omissions," estimated the final residual balance last year at $64,000,- 000 against the United States. The same balance in 1924 was $74,000,000 in this country's favor.

Although the excess of exports in merchandise dropped $304,000,000 from the 1924 figure and a marked increase of $125,000,000 in imports of new foreign securities was shown over that year, these were balanced by equivalent credit changes.
